

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a system and method for print outcome notification. In one arrangement, the system and method pertain to determining which print settings are selected, determining whether one or more of the print settings is 5 likely to adversely affect a printing result, and providing notification to a user that a selected print setting may result in an adverse printing result.

10033622-122701